THREE NOTABLE STORIES.

The Story of Margredel.

By a NEW WRITER. Being the Fireside History of a Fifieshire Family. Copyrighted American edition. Uniform with "Ships that Pass in the Night." 12mo, cloth, $1.00. (Ready March 3.)

It is safe to predict that "The Story of Margredel" will arouse great interest in regard to the identity of its unknown author, and many discussions will take place on the question whether it is the work of a woman or that of a man.

The story will absorb the attention of the reader until the end, but he will desire to wander back again over its pages for the pleasure of re-reading the many charming bits of philosophy and character sketches. The Baillie is excellently portrayed, and the generous nature of the times is admirably represented by the member of the Crocodile Club, who with the full authority of the club, translated "Dramatis Persona" as "a dram for each person."

Ships that Pass in the Night.

A Novel. By BEATRICE HARRADEN. Authorized American edition. 30th thousand. 16mo, $1.00. Popular edition, paper, 50 cents.

"There is a wealth of philosophy, humor, and pathos in this little tale, and it is told so simply that one feels as if he were a part of it, somehow. So truly are the human heartstrings struck that he must be beyond redemption whose inner self does not vibrate in sympathy many times, as the pages are turned. There is an abundance of sound sense, and innumerable quotable passages, and not a dull page. Many a more pretentious volume seeks in vain for such an encomium. New thoughts are suggested because old thoughts are so truly phrased, and new motives and higher aims are inspired by this little book because it gets right down to the human entities and reveals the chords of life as they are, some time or other, in every life. 'Ships that Pass in the Night' is one book in ten thousand; you should read it."—Boston Times.

A Literary Courtship.

Under the Auspices of Pike's Peak. A Story of Massachusetts and Colorado. By ANNA FULLER, author of "Pratt Portraits." Fifth edition. Illustrated. 12mo, $1.00.

"An altogether charming little story."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"The brightest, breeziest, most satisfactory bit of fun and romance which has come to our notice in many a day."—Chicago Interior.

"It is a book to read and enjoy either alone or with pleasant companions, and to make the reader glad that the author has given us such a charming combination of humor, naturalness, and originality."—Public Opinion, Washington, D. C.

The one-volume edition contains ten full-page illustrations, the two-volume edition contains thirty-two illustrations, and also may be had in half-calf binding.

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish at once "Benefits Forgot," the striking novel of American life, by Wolcott Balestier, that has attracted so much attention during its publication in the Century Magazine. They will publish at the same time in their Town and Country Library a new novel by Mrs. Alexander, entitled "A Ward in Chancery."

MACMILLAN & Co. will publish early in the spring the second volume of the revised edition of Bryce's "American Commonwealth;" a new edition, in two volumes, of Craik's "Life of Swift;" a new edition of "The Letters of Edward Fitzgerald;" Mrs. Green's "Town Life in the Fifteenth Century;" the first volume of Pargrave's "Dictionary of Political Economy;" and three new volumes of the Dryburgh Edition of Scott's Waverley Novels. The volumes by Dickens which Macmillan & Co. will add to their recent partial edition of Dickens are: "Little Dorritt," "Bleak House," "Christmas Stories," "Hard Times," "Uncommercial Traveller," "Great Expectations," "Tale of Two Cities," "Our Mutual Friend," and "Edwin Drood, and other stories." They have also in preparation two works of Marion Crawford about Constantinople, of which part has already appeared in magazine form.

HARPER & BROTHERS have nearly ready a work on "The Jewish Question and the Mission of the Jews," by an anonymous author, who, it is said, has made a careful and peculiarly complete study of the Jew as a type, an influence, and a "problem" of increasing importance in the history of civilization. "The Wee Ones of Japan," a study of the Japanese child in babyhood and just beyond, by Mae St. John Bramhall, with illustrations by C. D. Weldon; "For Honor and Life," a military tale of the 18th century, by William Weston; and "The Expert Waitress," by Anne Frances Springstead, a series of papers intended rather as a working model than as a set of arbitrary rules, treating of such subjects as the duties of a waitress at various meals, the care of the dining-room and pantry, the proper ways of caring for silver, lamps, etc., and many other important household details. They will publish at once "Our English Cousins," by Richard Harding Davis. The volume will contain the sketches of London life, and the descriptions of A General Election, Undergraduate Life at Oxford, and Three English Race Meetings, which have appeared in Harper's Magazine during the past year.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

JUDGE PRYOR, of the Court of Common Pleas, on the 20th inst., permitted Nellie Bishop Herrick, the author, to assume her pen-name, "Helen Leavenworth Herrick," instead of her present name.

MISS OLIVE SCHREINER, the author of "The Story of an African Farm," is engaged to be married to Mr. Cron Wright, the son of a well-known South African farmer and member of the Cape Parliament. It is said, by the way, that more than 70,000 copies of "The African Farm" have been sold.

R. L. STEVENSON, according to the New York Tribune, is engaged upon three Scotch stories—so he writes from Samoa to Mr. Barrie. To this statement Mr. Stevenson added another, to the effect that he had been elected "a member of a society, which he called a temperance society, founded with two objects—the first, the inculcation of temperance principles, and the second, to encourage the exportation of Scotch whiskey."

The author aims to show that Christ was not the son of God, and that the Bible is not the word of God; he believes that the entire Christian system may be swept away, and yet a pure religion and profound veneration for God remain. The New Testament is subjected to a rigorous criticism in the light of contemporary and modern writers. He believes that a false standard of right and wrong has been deducted from the Bible. "We shall best," he says, "win a heaven in the life to come, by making a heaven of the life we are in. The enigmas of this life are all that is given us to solve here."

Quondam, (pseud.) The Egyptian harp girl: a mystery of the peristyle. Chic., Laird & Lee, 1894. c. 6-272 p. il. D. (Pastime ser.) pap., 25 c. [571]

Lisle, a minister of the Christian faith and a learned archaeologist, is commissioned by a western college and representatives of the World's Columbian Exposition to go to Egypt in their interest; while musing near the Temple of Luxor he has an adventure, which leads him with his wife and daughter to explore the Oserian Temple; their startling discoveries and remarkable experiences lead Lisle to attempt a reproduction of the Pagan Temple in Chicago. The story closes in that city, with a scene which is evidently an attempt to prove the triumph of Christianity over Paganism.

Notwithstanding the title, David of Juniper Gulch—a sturdy young miner—plays but a small part. It is a story of the life, experiences, and heart-history of a young girl brought up in a little California mining town. Hulda Hardy's sweet and noble nature is admirably developed, and though her great sacrifice, made for the sake of a girl friend, comes near wrecking her life, the clouds clear at last, and the conclusion is eminently satisfactory. The descriptions of California life and Hulda's experiences as "school ma'am" in the mountain regions are fresh and interesting.

Stories both tragic and comic. The opening and longest story which gives title to the volume "The King of the Schnorrers" embodies some of the floating traditions of the Jewish Schnorrer, who is as unique among beggars as Israel among nations. The close of the eighteenth century is the background of this fantastic Anglo-Jewish narrative. The vagaries of this king of the beggars are most laughable. Some of the titles of the other fifteen stories are: The semi-sentimental dragon; A tragic comedy of creeds; An odd life; Cheating the gallows; A rose of the Ghetto; Flutterduck, a Ghetto grotesque, etc., etc.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

A PROPOSED "AMERICAN CATALOGUE OF BOOKS, 1800-1876."

WITHIN the last few months plans have been outlined and arrangements made for the compilation of a new volume of the American Catalogue, to include books published prior to 1876, and the work as projected is shortly to be brought to the attention of the book trade and others interested in American bibliography. It is intended to make this volume a precursor of the General American Catalogue, the plan of which was outlined in the preface to "The American Catalogue" volume of 1884-90. The first step towards the preparation of such a general catalogue is necessarily the collation and collocation of the titles of books not included in the existing series of "The American Catalogue" volumes. The first volume of "The American Catalogue" recorded such books as were in print and for sale in 1876; but the materials of American bibliography before that date are scattered through a number of volumes, all of them imperfect even for their respective periods, and many of them rare and practically inaccessible. It is therefore proposed to compile a volume of "The American Catalogue" which shall combine the material found in the several volumes of Roorbach and Kelly, Stevens' "Bibliography of American Books in the British Museum," Trübner's "Bibliographical Guide to American Literature," and in other directions, which would be not only valuable in itself but a most important step toward the preparation of a general catalogue of books published during the nineteenth century. Some experimental work has already been done in this direction, and the result has shown that the imperfections in these early bibliographies are much greater than had been supposed, as the number of books in each volume which are not to be found in the corresponding alphabet of the other works is very considerable. If reasonable promise of support for the enterprise can be obtained, the preparation of the catalogue will be put at once into the hands of competent compilers, on a plan already worked out, and the material will be finally edited into an author alphabet, and thereafter—if financial support justifies—into title and subject alphabets. A supplementary part will be appended, giving the publications of societies, of U. S. Government publications, and State publications up to the dates of the supplements in the later volumes of "The American Catalogue," which would, indeed, cover these fields practically from the beginning, as the publications of the years previous to 1800 are so few as to be easily included.

The work will be issued in $2 parts, and it is understood that subscribers are not to be bound to an extent beyond $10, within which limit the completion of the author alphabet at least is guaranteed, and the supplementary part can probably be finished and furnished, if not the title and subject alphabets also. It is desired that only one instalment of $2 per copy should be collected in advance; further instalments will not be asked for earlier than the latter part of this year. Under these circumstances the subscription would hardly prove burdensome to any. It is hoped, therefore, that the proposed publication of a work so important to American bibliography may meet with recognition and encouragement, and that prompt and adequate support may insure the carrying out of the enterprise.

BRITISH SUPPORT OF LITERATURE.

From the London Publishers' Circular.

MR. CHATTO, of the well-known firm of Chatto & Windus, assuming that the annual turnover of publishers is five millions sterling, adds £750,000 as retail booksellers' profits, and £500,000 spent on second-hand books, with the result that he estimates the "nation's book bill" at £1,250,000—"a trifle compared to some of our other national bills." Mr. Sonnenschein, while admitting the very great difficulty of getting at the true figures in such an estimate, is less sanguine than Mr. Chatto. He assumes that we spend £1,800,000 on new literature, a similar amount on "not new literature," and one million overturn in second-hand books—"a total of £4,600,000." It will be noticed that there is a difference of over a million and a half sterling between the two calculations, although Mr. Sonnenschein is careful to explain that his figures are probably below the actual amount. Taking Mr. Chatto's figures, therefore, as approximately correct, will the British nation be surprised at the generous support it gives to literature? One hundred and forty millions on drink—six millions on books!

THE LIGNEROLLES LIBRARY.

From the London Athenæum.

THE sale of the first portion of the library of that zealous and eccentric collector, the Comte de Lignerolles, took place in the first week of February, in Paris. A copy of the Abbé de Choisy's translation (1692), which had belonged to Madame de Maintenon, and bore her arms, fetched 3110 fr. Phillip de Mornay's famous treatise on the Eucharist, the copy (Rochelle, 1598) given by the author to his daughter Martha, brought 1700 fr. The first edition of the "Horloge de Sapienne," with sixteen miniatures, sold for 4520 fr. A Psalter printed in Officina Simonis Colinaei, in a binding of the seventeenth century, went for 2500 fr. The "Office de la Semaine Sainte," presented to the Princesse de Lamballe by Louis XVI. and Marie Antoinette, and containing autograph inscriptions by them and the future Duchesse d'Angoulême, brought 30,000 fr. The "Homélies du Bréviaire," Baudoin's translation (1640), went for 10,000 fr. The "Grande Danse Macabre," published by Estienne Groulleau about 1550, fetched 1120 fr. A vellum manuscript of the fifteenth century, ornamented with twenty-two miniatures, secured 11,000 fr.; a Horæ of the close of the same century, also on vellum, 10,500 fr.; another vellum Horæ of the same century, the binding of which had the arms of Philip V. of Spain, went for 8850 fr. A vellum manuscript of Prayers of 1649, adorned with nine miniatures by Du Guernier, 6920 fr. A vellum ms. of the "Chevalier délibéré," belonging to the end of the fifteenth century and containing several miniatures, 4130 fr. One (on vellum, of the eighteenth century) of the "Cérémonial des Vestures," that had belonged to Elizabeth Armand du Plessis, Prioress at Paris of the Benedictines of the Presentation, 3750 fr. A vellum ms. of the fifteenth century of "Le Débat de la Noire et de la Tannée," 3205 fr. A ms. calendar of the end of the fifteenth century, adorned with miniatures, brought 3000 fr. The total sum realized in six days was 330,575 fr. The sale of the second part will begin at the Hôtel Drouot on March 7.

OBITUARY NOTES.

BERNARD CALLAGHAN, the founder of the well-known law publishing firm of Callaghan & Co. of Chicago, died at his home on the 29th ult., aged 72 years. Mr. Callaghan was born in Roslea, Fermanagh county, Ireland, in 1822. Leaving his father's farm at about twenty-two years of age, a poor young man, he engaged in the lumber business near Halifax, N. S. In the fall of 1848 he removed to St. John, N. B., still engaging in lumber operations. In the same year (1848) he removed to Boston, and for four years engaged in various enterprises, acting as night-watchman and day employee in the same store. Such a strain could only be endured by a man of strong constitution and determined will, both of which he possessed. In 1852 he entered the employ of Little, Brown & Co., law and miscellaneous book publishers, where he served faithfully for thirteen years, leaving their employ in the spring of 1864. In company with a fellow-clerk he went to Chicago, and embarked in a modest law business at 126 Clark Street, under the firm name of Callaghan & Cutler. Later the firm became Callaghan & Cockcroft, and later still Callaghan & Co., moving to 80 Dearborn Street in 1871. The great fire of that year destroyed everything they owned. Starting again with nothing but pluck and determination, in a basement on Washburn Avenue, by honest dealing and close attention to business they earned the facetious name of "Call-again," and every dollar owed at the time of the fire was paid, and the firm were again ahead. In December, 1872, they moved to 161 Clark Street, where they remained until 1883, when they moved to their present location, 114 East Monroe Street. The qualities of character possessed by Mr. Callaghan have placed the house among the largest of its kind in the United States. Mr. Callaghan retired from the firm in 1891, leaving the control to his son and the other members of the firm.

JOSEPH KEPPLER, the cartoonist and founder of Puck, died at his home in New York City on the 19th inst., aged 56 years. His death was due to nervous disorder brought on by overwork, especially during the last summer at Chicago, where he had charge of the World's Fair Puck. Mr. Keppler was born in Vienna on February 1, 1838. He showed artistic talent when young, and was sent to an academy of design. He also attempted a theatrical career with but indifferent success. In 1868 he came to this country, and about 1874 he established a comic weekly, first entitled Die Vehme, but whose name was afterwards changed to Puck in St. Louis. The venture failed. Soon after Mr. Keppler came to New York City and entered the employ of Frank Leslie. In 1877, with Adolph Schwarzmann, he established Puck, which for the first three months was issued only in German. As a cartoonist Mr. Keppler showed great power, and his name has been closely associated with the growth of the art in America. He was one of the first to introduce colored cartoons. He leaves a widow, a son, and two daughters. His son, who is about twenty-three years old, also draws cartoons, which he signs "Keppler, jr."

JOHN G. BROUGHTON died on the 14th inst., at his home in Bloomfield, N. J., of pneumonia, in his 59th year. For many years he was the senior member of the firm of Broughton & Wyman, publishers of Sunday-school books in the Bible House in New York City.

THE death is announced of Madame Blaze de Bury, the widow of A. H. Blaze, and herself a contributor to the Revue de Paris and the Revue des Deux Mondes, and the writer of a volume of travels in Germany and Austria during the revolutionary troubles of 1848-49.

WILLIAM W. WILLIAMS, president and founder of the Williams Pub. Co., the subscription-book publishing house of Cleveland, O., died on the 19th inst., after an illness of several weeks.

Its well-lighted spaces afford exceptional opportunities for the storage display and examination of goods, while freight and passenger elevators provide ample facilities for making easy and rapid circuit of the whole establishment.

NEW YORK CITY.—Becker Brothers, designers of artistic bindings, and engravers, have removed to 26 East 13th Street.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Cassell Publishing Co., of New York, recently organized, met in Elizabeth February 6, and elected the following officers for the year: President, William L. Mershon; vice-president, Frank Seaman; treasurer, Edwin A. Archer; secretary, John T. Ryan. Sydney F. Walker was elected, with the above-mentioned officers, as a director.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Jenness Miller Company, of New York, has been incorporated to print a monthly magazine, etc., capital $10,000, and directors, Wm. Green, Brooklyn; Annie Jenness Miller and Edward J. McDonnell, New York City.

NEW YORK CITY.—Judgment was entered on the 15th inst. against the United States Book Company in favor of the Caxton Bookbinding Co. on notes made in October and November, 1892.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—It is reported that John Wanamaker has sold his business to Nathan Strauss, who is to continue it under the firm-name of The John Wanamaker Company. Nathan Strauss, according to the same rumor, is also said to have purchased the interest of Mr. Cooper in the business of Siegel, Cooper & Co., of Chicago. We give the report only for what it is worth, having been unable to verify the facts.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

WILLIAM HEINEMANN, London, will publish at once a volume of short stories, by the author of "The Heavenly Twins," to be entitled "Our Manifold Lives."

ELLIOT STOCK will issue at once a new book by R. C. Hope, entitled "Mediaeval Music: an historical sketch with musical illustrations," giving an excellent historical and artistic survey.

"DODO," it is said, is going into its thirteenth edition in England. Its author has just finished a new novel, but cannot decide upon its title, having under consideration four remarkably clever ones.

GINN & Co. will publish in May "A Book of Elizabethan Lyrics," selected and edited with introduction, notes, and indices, by F. E. Schelling, professor in the University of Pennsylvania.

THE Deutsche Verlags Anstalt of Stuttgart has issued an illustrated German translation of Wallace's "Ben-Hur." The same illustrations will be used in a Dutch translation, to be issued by D. Bolle, of Rotterdam.

ELKIN MATHEWS & JOHN LANE have just issued a volume of verse by Grant Allen, entitled "The Lower Slopes," with a title-page designed by J. Illingworth Kay. Most of the poems were written a good while ago.

THE BURROWS BROTHERS CO., Cleveland, O., call our attention to the fact that the price of their forthcoming edition of the Lincoln and Douglas Debates is to be $3.50 net, not $2.50, as stated in our issue of the 10th inst.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. will publish an account of the recent expedition to the Antarctic regions on board a Dundee whaler, written and illustrated by W. G. Burn Murdoch. Scientific notes are contributed by the naturalists of the expedition.

WM. BLACKWOOD & SONS have in preparation a volume on "English Literature Under the Georges," which the late Prof. Minto had prepared shortly before his death. The volume is being revised by Prof. Knight, of St. Andrews, and will shortly be published.

THE London correspondent of the New York Times reports that the first edition of 5000 copies of Thomas Hardy's new book was more than subscribed for in the London trade alone, so that binding was held back till another 5000 were got ready, and the whole edition of 10,000 will be issued at once.

H. SOTHERAN & Co. will publish shortly as a supplement to Hain's "Repertorium Bibliographicum," the "Corrections and Additions" on which Dr. Copinger has been for a long time engaged. The whole work will consist of four parts, each containing an instalment both of the additional entries and of the corrections and collations.

GEORGE ALLEN will publish next month "Verona, and other lectures," by John Ruskin. The lectures were delivered at the Royal Institution and London Institution at various periods between the years 1870 and 1883. The work will be illustrated by a colored frontispiece and several photogravure plates from drawings by the author.

THE AMERICAN ACADEMY OF POLITICAL AND SOCIAL SCIENCE will publish March 1 a translation from the German of Professor Gustav Cohn's "History of Political Economy." The work has been translated by Dr. Jos. A. Hill, and has never before appeared in English. It is prefaced by an introduction by Prof. Edmund J. James, Ph. D.

PROF. G. B. WILDER, of Cornell University Ithaca, N. Y., has published a monograph, entitled "Physiology Practicums," giving "explicit directions for examining portions of the cat, and the heart, eye, and brain of the sheep as an aid in the study of elementary physiology." The work consists of seventy-seven pages of text and twenty-seven plates unbound and enclosed in a portfolio.

THE W. L. RICHARDSON CO., 73 Hanover Street, Boston, desire to call the attention of the trade to the fact that the price of the new and enlarged edition of George W. Hale's "Police and Prison Cyclopædia" is $4, not $2.50 as recorded in the "Annual Catalogue" for 1893. The new edition contains over three times as much matter as the first edition, which easily accounts for the raise in price.

COPELAND & DAY act as the American publishers of the limited edition of "Eight Illustrations to Shakespeare's Tempest," by Walter Crane. Each proof, on thin paper, is mounted and provided with a mat for framing and a fly-leaf with title, and the whole is enclosed in a box simulating a book. The engravings are by Duncan C. Dallas, in what is known as "Dallastype," and are certified to by Mr. Crane as "very faithful and successful."

IT is understood that the "History of the United States Navy," upon which Edgar Stanton Maclay has been engaged for the last nine years, is now nearing completion. It is a curious fact that no complete history of the navy has been published since Fenimore Cooper's time, and Mr. Maclay's elaborate work will meet a demand which has grown stronger since the public became interested in the building up of our new navy. Mr. Maclay's history, which will be published by D. Appleton & Co., comes down to 1893.

THE chief feature in the thirty-first issue of "The Statesman's Year Book," to be published immediately by Macmillan & Co., will be an entirely new treatment of the great navies of the world, contributed by John Leyland. All the sections relating to fleets in the several countries have been re-cast on a uniform plan, so as to permit a comparative view. Statements are given of ships in course of construction, and of those that have only been ordered to be laid down, and also detailed descriptions of the principal types of vessels.

ALMOST five hundred years after Chaucer ceased to write, the first complete edition of his works in prose and verse is to be issued. Prof. Skeat has devoted to it the labor of several years, and his first volume, containing a life of Chaucer, a list of his works, the "Romaunt of the Rose," and the "Minor Poems," with full introductions and notes, will appear before long. The work will be completed in six volumes. The Oxford Chaucer will be published by the Clarendon Press, and will match the standard edition of "Piers the Plowman," by the same editor.

THE French Academy began work upon the first letter of its famous "Dictionnaire Historique de la Langue Française" a little less than fifty years ago. A few weeks since it finished this exacting A. A few years ago M. Renan told his countrymen that the Academy would be completing its great work about twelve hundred years from that time; and M. Bergerat made this comment on Renan's satirical statement: "The real truth is far more cruel. M. Renan talks of only twelve centuries as being enough for the purpose, in order to keep up our spirits." An illustration of the exhaustive work by which the great lexicon has profited is to be seen in the fact that the word "Académie," which occupies fifty lines in the "Dictionnaire de l'Usage" fills ten of the double-column pages of the "Dictionnaire Historique."—N. Y. Tribune.

TIFFANY & Co., of New York City, have recently published an exquisitely printed and bound brochure, containing a biographical description of Charles L. Tiffany in particular, and of the firm of Tiffany & Co. in general, prepared by George Frederic Heydt. The fortunes of the founder and of his firm are traced from the birth of the former in Killingly, Conn., in 1812, and of the latter as Tiffany & Young, in New York, in 1837, down to the World's Columbian Exposition. It is probably little remembered now that the well-known jewellers and gold and silver smiths began as dealers in stationery and fancy-goods solely, pitching their tent one door above A. T. Stewart's modest dry-goods establishment at 259 Broadway, at the corner of Warren Street. Nine views of the different stores occupied, and exhibits made by the firm, and two portraits of Mr. Charles L. Tiffany, one a steel plate, accompany the text.

THE AMERICAN FOLK-LORE SOCIETY is about to undertake an extensive scheme of publication, under the general title of Memoirs of the American Folk-Lore Society. The first volume of this series, to be published in March, will be "Folk-Tales of Angola," by Heli Chatelain, late U. S. Commercial Agent in Loanda, West Africa. The work, which, together with an explanatory introduction, will give in original text and literal translation the oral literature of the West African coast, will be the first published representation of the ideas, emotions, and moral sentiments of races from which has been derived a great part of the negro population of the Southern States, and will therefore have an important bearing on American history. Among other works intended to continue the series are collections of the French Creole tales of Louisiana, and of the current superstitions still found in great mass among the English-speaking population. The publications proposed will constitute an important addition to Americana; but the complete execution of the plan will depend on adequate support from the American public. For this purpose, the number of members of the society should be increased by at least five hundred. Persons interested in the work of the society will be received as members, the annual fee being three dollars, giving the right to a copy of the organ of the society, the Journal of American Folk-Lore (quarterly). A subscription of ten dollars to the Publication Fund will include the membership fee, and entitle the subscriber to all the publications of the society, including the Memoirs, of which it is proposed to issue several numbers annually. Persons wishing to become members, or subscribe to the Publication Fund, may address the Permanent Secretary, W. W. Newell, Cambridge, Mass.

NEARLY READY:

THE ANNUAL LITERARY INDEX, ...1893...

INCLUDING PERIODICALS, AMERICAN AND ENGLISH, ESSAYS, BOOK-CHAPTERS, ETC.,
SPECIAL BIBLIOGRAPHIES AND NECROLOGY OF AUTHORS.

EDITED BY W. I. FLETCHER and R. R. BOWKER,

With the co-operation of members of the American Library Association and of the Library Journal staff.

THE ANNUAL LITERARY INDEX for 1893 complements the "Annual American Catalogue" of books published in 1893 by indexing (1) articles in periodicals published in 1892; (2) essays and book-chapters in composite books of 1892; (3) authors of periodical articles and essays; (4) special bibliographies of 1892; (5) authors deceased in 1892. The two volumes together make a complete record of the literary product of the year.

The new volume includes the features of the "Co-operative Index to Periodicals," originally a monthly supplement to the Library Journal, then extended into a quarterly in an enlarged form, and later issued as an annual volume.

THE ANNUAL LITERARY INDEX for 1893 forms the second supplement both to the new five-yearly volume (1887-1891) of Poole's Index to Periodical Literature and to the new A. L. A. Index to essays and book-chapters of Mr. Fletcher.

The new volume will more than fulfil the opinion as to the Co-operative Index expressed in the following extract:

"To the literary worker its value can hardly be over-estimated; to the specialist in any branch of science or letters it is indispensable, since it places within his immediate reach many of the latest fruits of labor in the same field. To every one who desires to be well informed it furnishes the means of making the most effective use of his time."—Providence Press.

One vol., cloth, (uniform with "A. L. A. Index,") $3.50.

 Early orders for the above are solicited.
